Christmas Clarets - The Super Six

'P' Pauillac, Anthony Barton 2018, 12.5%
With fruit sourced from vineyards across Pauillac, this blend is designed to showcase the region's terroir. Ripe blackcurrant, sweet spice and discreet oak from around 11 months in barrel, combined with a fine tannic backbone, result in a typically delicious claret, drinking well now.

Château d'Aiguilhe, Castillon - Côtes de Bordeaux 2019, 14.5%
A modern Côtes de Castillon with intense, meaty and balsamic aromas. Rich and voluptuous, with ripe, silky tannins and a smooth, rounded finish. Drinking beautifully now. Owned by Comte von Neipperg of Canon-la-Gaffelière.

Château La Fleur-Pourret, Saint-Emilion grand cru 2018, 14.5% V
Made by the team at Château Figeac, this mature claret offers ripe blackberry, plum and floral aromas. The palate is fruit-driven and finely balanced, offering layers of deep black fruit, easy tannins and a soft finish.

Moulin du Château La Lagune, Haut-Médoc 2019, 14.5%
Full of fragrant, jammy black fruit character with cloves and spice behind. Powerful with supple tannin that can be a feature of this vintage supporting a round, full flavoured core, this is drinking well now but will cellar for a few more years.

Les Fiefs de Lagrange, Saint-Julien 2019, 14%
This opens with full-on notes of blackcurrant, cassis and wild blueberry. The palate is creamy, smooth and generous, balancing fine tannins with vibrant, dark plum fruit and a fresh finish. Well structured, big but refined, a classy wine.

Ségla, Margaux 2017, 13.5% V
The younger sibling of acclaimed second growth Château Rauzan-Ségla. Floral and sophisticated, there is subtle cassis and dried fig with a touch of cinnamon spice, the 2017 vintage is drinking beautifully now.
