Description

The history of Glenfarclas, meaning 'valley of the green grass', dates back to 1836. The 10 year old is elegant and dry, with an intense nose of nutty and smoky notes, then a malty, rich and spicy palate which is long and sweet.

Press Reviews	The Glenfarclas distillery, just a short walk from the River Spey, produces a creamy, mouth-soothing whisky that's spot on for Christmas. The ten-year-old has a fruity, almost smoky vanilla sweetness, so pour yourself a quiet dram and nurse it beside the tree. Will Lyons, The Sunday Times, 19th December 2021
