Press Reviews	Very, very roast-beef meaty on the nose. It's like opening the oven when the edges of that sirloin roast have just started to caramelize – if you're a carnivore, this smell would make your mouth water instantly! There's a sharp, earthy, red-fruitiness to the palate that tastes like a mélange of slowly oven-roasted tomatoes and mushrooms, sumac and ras al hanout spices, tamarind and strawberries. And there is leather. And dried thyme. Tannins that have the weathered crevasses of the hands of a man who has worked hard outdoors all his life. A kaleidoscope of fruit, acid, spice, tannin, leaf, earth, that comes together and tells a story. Tamlyn Currin, JancisRobinson.com, 30th July 2020
