Rich and well balanced with plenty of ripe melon and banana fruit but with hints of grapefruit bringing freshness to the mix, the resulting wine is full flavoured, fresh and characterful.

Press Reviews

We do not see a lot of Italy's Fiano grape in this country, which fell out of favour but is now enjoying something of a revival, which has slightly richer fruit flavours than a lot of Italian whites, but cut through with an appealing freshness that is just right for a spring evening. The Carlomagno Fiano Puglia 2017 is another excellent every day wine from the southern heel of Italy which has bags of tropical and grapefruit flavours.

Produced by Stefano Chioccioli for the recently established firm the Wine People, this tempts with an initial wave of tropical fruit, but once savoured it hits you with a satisfying blast of grapefruit and floral aroma.
